Eco-Friendly Element Travel Trailer with Sleek European Design Debuts at George M. Sutton RV in Eugene, Ore.

New Element Travel Trailer is a Fusion of Classic American Automotive Design and Aerodynamic Euro-inspired Camping Trailers.

Eugene, Ore. — EverGreen Recreational Vehicles, LLC. is pleased to announce George M. Sutton RV has added the all new Element travel trailers to its line of recreational vehicles at its Eugene, Oregon location.

“George M. Sutton RV is excited to introduce the Element travel trailers to the Northwest region,” states George Sutton, president and general manager. “The Element has a classic but modern look and shape that people love. It is a real attention getter. With gas prices so high now customers love the light weight, aerodynamic, easy to tow trailers making Elements a very hot item,” Sutton concluded.

EverGreen Recreational Vehicles pulled out all the stops with this new design. “The most noticeable feature of the Element is the unique styling and colors on both the outside and the inside,” states Doug Lantz, president and COO of EverGreen RV. “The Element is available in four color schemes over a unitized-body built of lightweight, all-composite materials. Panelized components are fused and fastened to form a one-piece outer perimeter shell that is stronger and more aerodynamic than conventionally built trailers. The result is a great looking trailer that will far outlast the competition,” Lantz concludes.

The uniqueness of the Element starts with a highly engineered, lightweight automotive-style chassis that is extremely durable. This chassis combined with extensive use of lightweight composites and aluminum result in a much lower tongue weight than typical RVs. There is virtually no wood in the structural components of an Element which means far less chance for rot, mold or mildew. And yet composites are four times stronger than wood.

“We are thrilled to have George M. Sutton RV carrying the Element brand,” states Ron Wiseman, Element Product Sales Manager. “George Sutton RV is family owned and operated and has been in business for 16 years. They have an outstanding team that really focuses on service after the sale and helping people find the right RV for their needs. They take great care of their customers. George Sutton RV only sells premium products, making it a perfect dealer for this market to showcase the Element,” Wiseman concludes.

“We are very pleased to have George M. Sutton RV carrying the Element”, states Doug Lantz, president and COO of EverGreen. “The market is ready for something completely new and we offer it to them with the Element. The EverGreen Recreational Vehicle name represents value and security for both our dealer partners and the RV buyer. We want to lead the industry in bold new products that are greener, lighter weight, more fuel-efficient plus are just plain fun to own,” concludes Lantz.
